VOGUE NEW YORK APPOINTS DONNA-MARIE IELUZZI TO EDITOR

New York City, New York – October 17, 2016 - This Monday world renowned fashion and lifestyle magazine Vogue appointed Donna-Marie Ieluzzi to editor of the magazine. Ieluzzi will be reporting directly to editor-in-chief, Ana Wintour. Ieluzzi will be working from Vogue's New York headquarters working alongside Wintour overseeing the continued prosperity of the magazine.

"I don't think it has actually hit me yet," says Ieluzzi. "Vogue has inspired me since the first time I laid eyes on the cover of the first magazine I ever bought, since that moment I've dreamed of working for this company. I am eager to make my mark in the fashion industry and learn under the wing of Anna my mentor and predecessor."

Wintour explains that she has never seen so much potential in someone in quite a while and is already hinting that Ieluzzi may be the future editor-in-chief of Vogue. "Donna-Marie is the next face of Vogue, she has shown that despite her age she is mature beyond her years and is hungry to learn more about the fashion industry."

Ieluzzi has obtained a degree in English at McMaster University and has received her post-graduate certification from the public relations program at Mohawk College in her hometown of Hamilton, Ontario. Ieluzzi's career has been nothing short of inspirational. She has been published numerous times in Elle Magazine for her popular and humorous articles on lifestyle and fashion. Ieluzzi was also named one of North America's top 100 fashion writers by Inspired Magazine.
